SUMMARY

There is no such online system for determination of the prices, quality and usefulness of the fertilizers, seeds, medicines, and agricultural techniques used by farmer that they receive can be determined by their own. Apart from this, the farmer selects the appropriate crop or does traditional farming due to the weather forecast, which has to be incurred during the crop cycle due to weather damage, insect mites and diseases. Due to lack of guidance or coordination at all levels in agriculture, unbalanced quantities of fertilizers, seeds, medicines are used by farmers, which increases the cost of farmers many times, and the harmful effects of medicines are also seen in our health. The online facility provided by kisan suvidha helps to farmer at every stage for their better guidance and upliftment of economic condition.

INTRODUCTION

There is uncertainty in agriculture for crop yield, prices and guidance; which makes farmers away from the agriculture and searching the other options of income. Constant efforts are being made to bring people back towards agriculture at the government level and to put them in agriculture or agriculture allied sectors. It prominently shows that the rural youth should be provided back to the village for agriculture and agriculture related business in the village itself, thereby motivating them to work for the upliftment of villages and farmers by adopting agriculture related businesses. So that the agricultural cost is reduced, the income of the farmers is larger than agriculture and agro-based business. Keeping all these things in mind, in the first attempt, by connecting rural youth through internet and computer, they should be made available information related to agriculture and agricultural business through guidance and training portal.

The Kisan Sudhidha Scheme facilitates to farmer in following ways:

Goal of Kisan Suwidha Scheme:

The centre should be established in the village itself to increase the productivity of crops, obtain good seeds, protect crops from diseases and get their fair price. Everyone should get proper information about government schemes, and they should be registered to get benefit from them. The identity of each village can be established through the availability of various agricultural implements, storage houses, processing units, packaging units, transportation systems, market search etc.; ensure availability of seeds of new crops and to increase productivity, balanced use of fertilizers and medicines etc. as per the advice of experts. For this, in the first attempt, through Kisan Suvidha.com, efforts have been made in every village to connect the youth associated with agriculture with agriculture, and the work of sending information related to agriculture to farmers and youth by connecting with agricultural experts has started.
